

We have seen sharks and coral reefs from all over the world, but what is going on in the rivers, lakes, and the sea, in our local areas?

From september 10 to 29, the exhibition "Underneath the surface" (German: "Unter der Oberfläche"), will provide information about the aquatic life in East Germany's bodies of water. Taken entirely using Aquatica housings 40 large format photographs plus informations that make up the exhibition, will impart knowledge about the many species found in East German rivers, lakes, and the Baltic Sea. The show will also provide information about the ecological quality of certain bodies of water. It will start at Potsdam Central Station close to Berlin and will travel through several German cities.

"Underneath the surface" („Unter der Oberfläche“)

40 Photographs from East German bodies of water by Daniel Klaucke

September 10 - 29, 2012, Potsdam Central Station, Brandenburg, Germany

Daniel Klaucke Photography

Daniel Klaucke Photography. Hermann-Elflein-Strasse 34 . 14467 Potsdam . Germany
info@danielklaucke.com . www.danielklaucke.com